Society of Colorado
Fall Lecture Series 2009

Queen Maeve: Warrior Goddess Queen of Ireland

a lecture by Joe McNair

September 11th, 2009 at 7 p.m.

*At the First Divine Science Church,
14th Ave. and Williams St.*

Cost: lecture is free to members, $15 at the door, $10 students and seniors

This lecture will traverse the world of Queen Maeve of Connacht, immortalized in the Tain, Ireland's epic known as "The Cattle Raid of Cooley." The tales about her remind us of an age when the Goddess held the High Ground and a ritualistic mating between Her and the New King would ensure the fertility and prosperity of the Land. In the Celtic culture it was the woman's prerogative to assert passion. We will explore Maeve as a comprehensive figure of the Feminine Numina - from the hag, to the sorceress, to the queen of the intoxicating mead. We will focus on the effects of thousands of years of suppression (hence into the 'unconscious') of this vital, life-giving and life-sustaining Archetypal energy, and our desperate need for her return. In this way, we re-member her, so that we may re-generate ourselves as individuals and as a collective, and thrive once again.

Joe McNair, Ph.D., is a Jungian Analyst with a love for Celtic Mythology, the Grail Legends, and Alchemy. He trained in Zurich from 1981 to 1987, and in Los Angeles. He co-authored the book "Jungian Analysts: Visions and Vulnerabilities." He recently helped lead a study/tour to Ireland, visiting Queen Maeve's cairn. He is a faculty member of the Jung Institutes of Colorado and Los Angeles, and he has private practices in Boulder, CO and Woodland Hills, CA.

Give Me Your Hand: Perspectives on Palmistry

a lecture by Louise Shinall

October 16th, 2009 at 7 p.m.

*At the First Divine Science Church,
14th Ave. and Williams St.*

*Cost: free to members, $15 at the door,
$10 students and seniors*

Get prepared for an enlightening and entertaining pre-Halloween evening with Louise Shinall. We will be led through the history of Chiromancy, now known as Palmistry, from Greek, Egyptian, Roman, and Biblical references, into its modern practice. What secrets did ancients such as Aristotle see in the palm, and how is palmistry still used today?

From the historical perspective, Louise will then move into sharing aspects of the process of palm reading, key traits and personality types that may be revealed in the palm; she will explore how this information relates to Jungian psychology, as well as many other psychological insights that her experience in this fascinating study have provided her. Louise will provide us with visual imagery, and will offer brief palm readings as demonstration of her art during the question and answer period.

Louise Shinall, B.S. is a practicing psychic in Denver, Colorado, specializing in Palmistry, Tarot, and Crystal Pendulum readings. She has a degree in psychology and philosophy from

Regis University, has been an avid Jung Society of Colorado member since 1981, and has attended numerous Jungian workshops and seminars over the years. It has been a natural progression for Louise to relate her psychic practice to psychological awareness.

Children and Children's Dreams:
A Jungian
Perspective
a lecture by Stewart
Gabel

*November 6th, 2009 at 7 p.m.
At the First Divine Science Church,
14th Ave. and Williams St.
Cost: free to members, $15 at the door,
$10 students and seniors*

Jung felt that dreams were of special significance during three periods of a person's life: early childhood, adolescence, and midlife. Dreams in childhood may provide a window into the lifelong psychological journey that is just beginning. Dreams may reflect personal concerns and individual conflicts, but even in very young children, they are rich sources of archetypal images and symbolism that reveal timeless and universal themes. Can the dream inform us about working psychotherapeutically with children? Is there a psychotherapeutic approach based on Jungian principles that can be applied to work with children? Jung, himself, seems to have consulted on children, but did not advocate for direct analytic work with them. He emphasized the importance of analytic work with parents as a way of helping children.

This lecture will discuss these issues in more detail. An illustrative dream will be presented. The question of what might constitute child-oriented psychotherapy from a Jungian perspective will be addressed.

Stewart Gabel, M.D. completed training in pediatrics, general and child and adolescent psychiatry. He was Chair of the Department of Psychiatry at The Children's Hospital, Denver for ten years. He is also a certified Jungian Analyst. Currently, Stewart commutes between Albany, New York, where he is the medical director for children and family services in the NYS Office of Mental Health, and Denver, where he maintains a small private practice. Stewart and his wife, Joan, have two children.

SoulCatchers:
Tapestries Of Dreams
a lecture by Kathy Martone

*December 11th, 2009 at 7 p.m.
At the First Divine Science Church,
14th Ave. and Williams St.
Cost: free to members, $15 at the door,
$10 students and seniors*

According to Carl Jung: "The unconscious contents want first of all to be seen clearly, which can only be done by giving them shape...and a visible form...By shaping [the dream], one goes on dreaming the dream in greater detail...."

Inspired by a dream in 2005, Dr. Martone began making dream banners, AKA SoulCatchers, using images from her own dreams. Not surprisingly, there developed an intriguing interplay between her dreams, her meditations, and the banners themselves, seemingly in direct relation to the images she created. In this lecture, Kathy will discuss Carl Jung's ideas about the importance of art and active imagination in the search for meaning and the shamanic practices that use soul catchers. She will end the evening with a sample display and description of some of her own “soul-catching” artistic creations.

Kathy Martone Ed.D. is a Jungian psychologist, author, and artist/creator of SoulCatchers. Dr. Martone has been in analysis with Richmond K. Greene, past chair of the New York Jung Institute, for the past 23 years. She has taught classes at Naropa University, Iliff School of Theology, Colorado Free University, and Jungian Ministries International. She specializes in dream work, including regular dream retreats for women, and a number of her banners have been displayed at local galleries.

How to Get to Our Lectures

Our lectures are held at the First Divine Science Church, located near the north edge of Cheesman Park, on Capitol Hill in Denver.

The church's street address is 1400 Williams Street, and it is on the northeast corner of 14th Avenue and Williams. 14th Avenue is directly linked to Broadway and Colorado Boulevard, and by these thoroughfares to the highways of the metro area.

There is plenty of parking available on Williams Street, and in a well-lit parking lot to the north of the church, as well as across the alley in a paved lot to the east of the building.

The C.G. Jung Institute of Colorado and the Johnson-Budington Library

The Johnson-Budington Library, the professional library of the Jung Institute of Colorado, is now open to Jung Society members. It is housed at 679 Grant Street in the institute's office space. The development of this library has been underway since 2004 and we are very proud of it. The library will initially be available to Jung Society members by appointment only for in-house research. For further information contact the Institute at:
